Audirvana Plus is a very high-end music player that provides a once-in-a-lifetime audio experience. The app offers many features that other media players don't have, such as volume leveling, a built in digital filter to improve the sound quality even further, and DSP Essential for additional tone controls. Audirvana Plus also supports iTunes files and various other audio file formats from MacOS or Windows computers. Audirvana Plus was created by the company Audiravana Technologies Inc., which is based in Canada. In case you wanted to know more about them, this article should help you out! It looks into who they are and why they made the app in the first place. Audirvana Plus allows users to control their devices without issue. It's not hard to use and understand, it's just very functional. Users can even access the app easily because it runs off of Wi-Fi or Ethernet cables. You can also save your music onto the app itself in order to enjoy your music on the go. There are many reviews for this app, but not all are positive. While most reviews are positive for this app, there are few that say it doesn't work or is expensive compared to other apps/devices available on the market. Some users say it doesn't work with their computer, but others say it works with everything they have used. Whatever the case may be, this app is definitely not for everyone. Hopefully, in the future Audirvana Plus can be improved in some way or another.
